DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is in response to the amendment filed 6/16/2005.
2. As per applicant's request, claims 2, 9, and 16 have been cancelled and claims 1, 3, 8, 10, 15, and 17 have been amended. Claims 1, 3-8, 10-15, and 17-21 are pending in the application.

Double Patenting

3. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

4. Claims 1, 3-8, 10-15, and 17-21 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-37 of U.S. Patent No. 6,820,253.

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because they are directed to substantially the same invention and recites only obvious differences which would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art of program development at the time of invention such as simply (i) omitting/adding steps or elements along with their functions, and/or (ii) implementing the method steps with means for performing the steps, and/or (iii) computer program implementation of the method, and/or (iv) implementing a system, product and data signal having computer program for performing the method steps, as explained below.

The following example is given:

Per claim 1:

Patent '253 recites a method, comprising: analyzing each routine, of a software program having a plurality of separately compilable routines, to create a plurality of local side-effect problems for each routine ("A method, comprising: analyzing each separately compilable program component of a software program having a plurality of separately compilable program components, to create a plurality of local problems for each separately compilable program component");

- merging the local side-effect problems to create a global side-effect problem
("merging the local problems to create a global problems")

-computing a global solution to the global problem ("computing a global solution to the global problem") and splitting the global solution into local solutions for the local side effect lattice problems ("and splitting the global solution into local solutions"), as recited in instant claim 1.

The instant claim does not explicitly use the terms such as "side-effect lattice problems" where a "side-effect of a routine is the reading from or writing to a storage by the routine." However, a data flow analysis is performed by operating on elements of a lattice that represent programming constructs for all possible executions of a procedure. Each of the possible control flow and a flow function that abstracts the side-effect of the construct to its effect on the corresponding lattice elements are associated in the analysis. Therefore, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art of programming development at the time the instant invention was made to modify the patent '253 method by adding the word and phrase, "side-effect lattice" and "a side-effect of a routine being the reading from or writing to a storage by the routine" for the purpose of expediting the method.
